MIRACLES THE MORE IN 2024

by Mike Jones

People came forward after I shared a message I believed was from the Lord before any ‘altar call’ was given. Maybe a third of the congregation in this little church filled the front. I hadn’t preached on healing, but the people came expecting. None of them were obviously blind or lame, but had needs and desires very dear to them. This was a divine setup. I ‘felt’ the anointing, and they expected healings and miracles. As I laid hands on each one and prayed, without me saying anything to them, every one of them acknowledged receiving their healing or miracle.

The last time I visited this church I’m pretty sure they were meeting in a school that only had two classrooms, which means not many people live in this area. I’m sure they don’t get many visiting preachers. Maybe that’s why they gave us such a tremendous welcome. This time we were not meeting in a school. The church had built a nice building, and probably had eighty people, or more in attendance.

The pastor was one of ours, from the MOT-MOT School of Ministry. Most people I’ve met in Africa have been very hospitable, like the people of my childhood in North Carolina. And this pastor was the best! I told them the day is coming when anyone walking through their village will sense the peace and joy of the Lord, and ask them, “What is different about this place.” They will answer, “Jesus passed by here, and His Holy Spirit remained with us.”

I went to another church, where I had been when they opened a few years ago. They were meeting in a grass roofed shelter, but this day we met in a very nice brick church where they had managed to roof about a fourth of the building. That was enough to keep us, but not everyone, out of the sun and rain. Again, the people came forward without an altar call. Again, we prayed and they all acknowledged receiving their healing, or miracle. But this time they didn’t leave. They kept standing there until the pastor told them to sit. They got a touch from God, but remained hungry for more.

from front

Schools have been delayed in the whole country because of Cholera (very far away from us). Even though the delay makes no sense to people around here, it was a blessing. Our first rain of the season came right on time, followed by a month of nothing. All of the rural people depend on the crops to physically sustain them. The delayed school term opening availed all of the family to work in the fields, tending to crops that were also a month delayed. Your prayers are working. In spite of the sparse rains this season, the crops are looking very promising.

We are busy getting school uniforms made and money needed for required supplies, for orphans living with relatives, but unable to go to school without help. Global Orphan Relief has partnered with us, enabling us to greatly expand this ministry over a number of years. Pastors we know and trust identify the truly needy orphans, and use the opportunity to evangelize their communities. When the children come with their guardians to receive the uniforms, they always thank us very much, which opens the door for the Word of God. These gatherings have proven to be much more powerful than I had expected. Whenever I'm pleasantly surprised by powerful 'moves' of God, I know our partners have been praying.

I'm more in love with Jesus Christ, and more 'fired up' to reach more people with the gospel than I was when I arrived thirty years ago. Through the orphanages, and orphan scholarships, MOT-MOT, the farm, preaching and teaching everywhere, feeding the hungry, and many other ministries over the years, the lives changed keeps increases and spreading farther, with more people getting saved, miracles and healings, delivered, and filled with the Holy Spirit than ever before. Your partnership continues to bear bountiful harvests safely stored into your spiritual accounts. Remain Faithful,

Prayer

For our grown orphans finding their place in life .
For God's anointing on the new school uniforms.
For a miracle good harvest.

Praises

For crops looking good in spite of sparse rains.
For great manifestation of God this new year.
For 30 years of truly amazing miracles!
